(Application for admission)

The application to take part in the selection procedure, as well as the project proposal, the scientific-professional curriculum, and the publications, must be submitted electronically, under penalty of exclusion, using the special electronic application at <https://pica.cineca.it/>. The electronic application requires the applicant to have an e-mail address in order to register with the system.

The applicant must enter all the data required to complete the application and attach the documents in electronic PDF format.

The application form must be completed in full, as indicated in the online procedure, and must be accompanied by:

- a scan of a valid identity document and a tax code. Non-European citizens must provide a scan of their valid passport;
- the signed and numbered list of qualifications that can be assessed, together with the declaration in lieu of a certificate or affidavit, as provided for in Articles 46 and 47 of Presidential Decree 445/2000, certifying that they are in possession of the above-mentioned documents;
- a signed scientific-professional curriculum vitae;
- a signed and numbered list of the academic publications attached;
- academic publications;

- any documentation showing the details of the recognition decision in Italy, in accordance with current regulations, of the PhD obtained abroad. If such recognition has not been carried out, the candidate must attach documentation certifying the possession of the PhD and the 'declaration of value' issued by the competent diplomatic-consular representation in the country whose legal system the PhD pertains to, or other documentation useful for enabling its evaluation for the purposes of conducting the research;

No other form of submission of applications or documentation for participation in the procedure is permitted.

The date of electronic submission of the application for participation in the selection is certified by the computer system by means of a receipt that will be automatically sent by e-mail. Once the deadline for submission has expired, the system will no longer allow access and submission of the electronic form.

Each application will be given an identification number which, together with the procedure code indicated in the computer application, must be specified in any subsequent communication.

The procedure for filling in and sending the application electronically must be completed no later than 23:59 on October 26th, 2026.

The submission of the application must be finalised and completed as follows:

- a) the candidate may register and access the platform using the Public Digital Identity System (SPID - security level 2), or CIE, selecting the University of Cagliari from among the organisations listed. If she/he does not have these credentials, she/he may submit a request following the procedures indicated on the website www.spid.gov.it.

When logged in with SPID or CIE, the application can be submitted without the need for a signature and will be accepted automatically by the system.

Alternatively, the candidate may register and log in using the credentials issued directly by the platform or authenticate with her/his LOGINMIUR, REPRISE or REFEREES account, if held.

- b) by means of a digital signature, using smart cards, USB tokens or remote signatures, enabling the holder to sign generic documents using PC-based signature software or a web portal for Remote Signature made available by the Certification Authority. If candidates are in possession of a smart card or a Digital Signature USB token, they can verify its compatibility with the Digital Signature system integrated in the server system. If the result is positive, the holder may sign the application directly on the server (e.g. using ConFirma);
- c) those who do not have compatible digital signature devices or are not Remote Digital Signature Holders having access to a portal for signing generic documents, must save the PDF file generated by the system on their PCs and, without modifying it in any way, digitally sign it in CAdES format (a file with a .p7m extension will be generated) or in PAdES format (a file with a .pdf extension will be generated) and must be uploaded to the system again. Any alterations made to the file before the Digital Signature has been affixed will prevent the automatic verification of the exact correspondence between the content of this document and the original, which will result in the exclusion of the application.

- d) in the event that one of the above options cannot be used, the candidate must save the PDF file generated by the system on his/her PC and, without modifying it in any way, print it out and affix a fully legible signature on the last page of the printout. This complete document must be produced in PDF format by scanning, and the resulting file must be uploaded to the system.

The first meeting of the Selection Committee is convened by the Internal Committee member, following consultation with the committee itself. At the inaugural meeting of the Selection Board, the members shall elect a Chairperson and a minutes Secretary.

The sum of the individual numerical weights must in all cases be equal to 100 points.

On the basis of the general criteria set out above, the Committee will, at its first meeting, specify and/or detail how they will be applied and the maximum weight assigned to each of them.

The assessment criteria established by the Committee will be published on the University's website (<https://personale.unica.it/docric/public/>) and candidates will be notified of the publication. After publication, the Committee will have access to the list of candidates and the documents they have submitted for the selection.

The Committee then proceeds collegially, based on the predetermined criteria for evaluating the project proposal, the scientific-professional curriculum, and the scientific output, to assign scores to the candidates and transmits them to the Person in Charge of the procedure.

The Person in Charge of the procedure will communicate the score obtained to the candidates before the interview takes place.

After assigning the score for each candidate's interview, the Committee formulates the ranking list based on the scores awarded to all candidates and designates the winner of the selection.

In case of a tie in scores, preference will be given to the candidate of the underrepresented gender among the current contract staff at the University.

In the event of a further tie, preference will be given to the candidate with the lower age.

Candidates who achieve a total score of 70 points or higher will pass the selection.

The acts consist of the minutes of each individual meeting, which include the collective scores assigned by the Committee to each candidate, and the final summary report of the work. In case of disagreement by a committee member in the evaluation of candidates, such disagreement may be expressed through a minority report.

If the Rector identifies irregularities in the conduct of the selection, he will return the acts to the Committee with a reasoned decision, assigning a deadline for the Committee to make any necessary modifications.

ART. 8

(Verification of the validity of documents)

The selection documentation shall be approved by Rectoral Decree within fifteen days of their delivery to the Offices. The decree approving the documents shall be published on the University website (<https://personale.unica.it/docric/public/>); the candidates and the Department concerned shall be informed of the publication.

ART. 9

(Signing of the employment contract and its duration)

The University, before the signing of the individual fixed-term employment contract, invites the candidate to submit the required documentation in accordance with the applicable regulations.

The winner of the selection will be called to sign an individual fixed-term employment contract within 15 days of receiving notification from the Offices. The candidate may request a postponement of no more than 30 days, provided that this is compatible with the project activities. Failure to sign the contract within the specified time frame will be considered a waiver of the position and removal from the ranking list.

In the event that the successful candidate declines to sign the contract or resigns within six months of commencing work, after consulting with the relevant department, the contract may be offered to another candidate selected according to the order of priority established on the basis of the ranking drawn up by the Commission.

For the purposes of the same research project, additional research contracts may be awarded to candidates who are successfully placed on the ranking list, provided that the relevant financial coverage has been ascertained. The scrolling of the ranking list must be authorised by the Board of Directors.

For the signing of the contract, the successful candidate must possess a digital signature.

The contractor will exclusively perform research activities as specified in the research contract. Holding the contract does not grant any right to access university positions.

Research contracts are of two years' duration.

For the purpose of calculating the total duration, periods spent on maternity or paternity leave or for health reasons, according to current legislation, are not taken into account.

The contractor is required, annually and at the end of the contract, to submit the results of the scientific activity to the Department in the form of a specific report. Failure to prepare the report or failure to obtain approval from the scientific supervisor of the research constitutes just cause for termination of the contract.

The research contracts are incompatible with:

- Any other subordinated employment relationship, including part-time or fixed-term contracts, with public or private entities;
- Holding research grants, even at other universities or public research organizations;
- Scholarships or research grants awarded by national or foreign institutions, except those exclusively aimed at international mobility for research purposes, including PhD scholarships and allowances related to medical specialization contracts;

- Engaging in activities that could lead to a conflict of interest with the university's activities or prevent the regular execution of the research activities.

The Contractor is entitled, for the entire duration of the contract, to an annual all-inclusive gross remuneration of €29,162.20, corresponding to the first salary level (parameter) provided for in Article 4, paragraph 4, letter i) of the aforementioned Regulation.

The employment relationship established between the University and the Research Contractor is governed by the individual contract and the relevant regulations, including those concerning tax, health, social security, and insurance provisions applicable to salaried employment.

Research program associated with the contract:
Within the FIS3 Starting Grant project “ Women Writing and the Use of Literature in Scientific Debates in Britain, 1650–1800 ” (WOWSCILIT), a five-year research programme funded by the Italian Ministry of University and Research (MUR) through the third edition of the Italian Science Fund (Fondo Italiano per la Scienza, FIS) (project code: FIS-2024-07834), a two-year research contract is available, with the expected starting date in the first months of 2027. WOWSCILIT is an interdisciplinary research project that explores how women writers active in the English-speaking world between 1650 and 1800 used literature to intervene in scientific debates. The project’s hypothesis is that, at a time when women in the English-speaking world faced severe restrictions on their participation in scientific debates, they chose to intervene in such debates through texts of a “literary” nature because, on the one hand, these were effective means of conveying their scientific ideas to their intellectual networks and, on the other, they were ideally suited to enabling them to control their image as authors, particularly by avoiding accusations of excessive learning or erudition (an accusation that would have exposed them to widespread criticism). WOWSCILIT has been designed to address research gaps in the critical literature on women and science in the early modern period, and in particular to reassess the common assumption in scholarship that women who engaged with scientific knowledge were exceptions within an intellectual landscape dominated by men.

The research conducted within the WOWSCILIT project is organised into four research strands:

1. Philosophical poetry, with particular attention to its use in debates on atomism in the mid-seventeenth century.
2. Drama, with particular attention to Restoration comedy and its use in debates on experimental philosophy from the second half of the seventeenth century to the early eighteenth century.
3. Essays in periodicals, with particular attention to their use in debates on natural philosophy in the mid-eighteenth century.
4. Travel literature, with particular attention to its use in debates on agronomy and “natural history” in the late eighteenth century.

The primary texts identified within these research strands will be examined through a hybrid methodology combining the history of ideas, the sociology of literature, and close reading, with the aim of reconstructing the intellectual networks within which the identified women authors sought to circulate their intellectual works. The ultimate goal of the project is to create and analyse a corpus of women authors and literary works that engaged with contemporary scientific debates, identifying case studies through which to test, refine, and, where appropriate, validate the initial hypothesis.

The research contractor, drawing on their expertise in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century English literature and culture, will be responsible

The Contractor, drawing on their expertise in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century English literature and culture, will be responsible for collecting and examining primary and secondary sources relating to Strand 1 (philosophical poetry) and Strand 3 (periodical essays). The primary objective of the research fellow’s work will be to contribute to the creation of the corpus by assessing which female authors and primary texts are suitable for the project, and by conducting an in-depth literature review of studies published on the topics, authors, and works under consideration. By way of indication, the research fellow’s research activities will consist of the following tasks:

A. Creation of a Corpus

1. Identify the female authors whose works contain references to scientific ideas.
2. Compile a list of relevant works by the identified authors.
3. Reconstruct the intellectual networks (both physical and epistolary) of these authors.
4. Identify and reconstruct the scientific debates to which these authors referred in their works.
5. Conduct a comprehensive literature review of secondary sources on the authors, works, scientific debates, and the actors involved in the authors’ intellectual networks.
6. Prepare biographical notes on the authors and the actors involved in their intellectual networks.

B. Analisi dei dati

7. Identificare dei case studies significativi all’interno del corpus

8. Ricostruire in che modo le autrici poterono fare riferimento ai dibattiti scientifici, specialmente in assenza di istruzione “formale” a livello scientifico
9. Identificare le forme letterarie (e.g., generi, retoriche, linguaggi) utilizzati da ciascuna autrice
10. Verificare per i case studies selezionati la validità dell’ipotesi avanzata nel progetto: cioè che le forme letterarie permettessero alle donne di intervenire in dibattiti scientifici all’interno delle loro reti intellettuali, mantenendo allo stesso tempo controllo della propria immagine pubblica

Over the two-year period, the Contractor will be required to produce a series of “deliverables” envisaged in the project plan, including:

- Writing at least three articles as first author on the project strands addressed by the research fellow, to be submitted to international peer-reviewed journals.
- Co-editing a volume on women and the use of literature to intervene in scientific debates.
- Presenting the results of their research at least two international conferences per year.
- Co-organizing the annual study days and the international conference at the end of the project.
- Producing research materials for the project website.

Periods of archival research abroad, supported by dedicated funding, are also envisaged. The research fellow will also be required to support the Principal Investigator (PI) with any additional needs relating to the research project that may arise over time.

Useful information for the submission of the project proposal:

Candidates are required to prepare a research proposal within the scope of the WOWSCILIT project and the research strands outlined above:

Research Strand 1: Philosophical poetry, with particular attention to its use in debates on neo-Epicurean atomism in the mid-seventeenth century.

Research Strand 3: Essays in periodicals, with particular attention to their use in debates on natural philosophy in the mid-eighteenth century.

The proposal must clearly and comprehensively describe the methodologies to be adopted, the expected results, and the anticipated contribution to the project’s activities with reference to the research strands outlined above.

Particular consideration will be given to proposals demonstrating knowledge of the relationship between women, writing, and scientific knowledge in the English context during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, as well as methodological expertise in the fields of the history of ideas and the sociology of literature.

Proposals will also be viewed favourably if they include a section outlining potential publication topics within the relevant research strands, with reference to the deliverables specified above.

8. Reconstruct how the authors were able to engage with scientific debates, particularly in the absence of “formal” scientific education.
9. Identify the literary forms (e.g. genres, rhetoric, language) employed by each author.

10. Assess, for the selected case studies, the validity of the hypothesis advanced by the project: namely, that literary forms enabled women to intervene in scientific debates within their intellectual networks while at the same time maintaining control over their public image.

Over the two-year period, the research contractor will be expected to produce a series of deliverables included in the project's work plan, including:

- Writing at least three articles as first author on the research strands addressed by the project, to be submitted to international peer-reviewed journals.
- Co-editing a volume on women and the use of literature to intervene in scientific debates.

- Producing research materials for the project website.

Periods of archival research abroad are also envisaged, with dedicated funding available. The research contractor will also be required to support the Principal Investigator (PI) with any additional needs relating to the research project that may arise over the course of the project.
